Allen Darrah to Join Data Governance Panel at Legalweek 2025

March 25, 2025
11:30 am ET - 12:30 pm ET
New York Hilton Midtown | 1335 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10019

Spencer Fane Chief Information Officer (CIO) Allen Darrah will present at Legalweek 2025, an ALM-hosted event taking place March 24-27 in New York.

Allen's March 25 panel, Data Governance Best Practices for Collaboration Across Departments, will delve into fundamental data governance frameworks that promote collaboration between legal, IT, and compliance teams in an increasingly complex regulatory environment. The panel will equip attendees with practical tools for establishing governance baselines that foster clear communication, streamline data workflows, and mitigate risk across different departments.

Described as the "leading conference for the legal technology industry," Legalweek transcends the traditional conference model to deliver unparalleled insights, networking, and technological innovation to thousands of professionals. In addition to panels like Allen's, the event's educational sessions will include workshop boot camps, case studies, and TED-style talks that address the entire spectrum of the legal industry.

At Spencer Fane, Allen spearheads the firm's technological vision, driving innovation and digital transformation while also serving as a foremost authority in navigating complex business environments. He also ensures the stringent protection of client data and privacy.
