Andrea Perry Joins Center for Nonprofit Excellence of Middle Tennessee Board

Spencer Fane is pleased to announce attorney Andrea Perry has been named a board member for the Center for Nonprofit Excellence of Middle Tennessee (CNEMT).

Since its founding in 1986, CNEMT has served as a pivotal resource to the region's nonprofit leaders by providing training, consulting, and evaluation programs that meet the education and management needs of the growing nonprofit community. Andrea brings a deep commitment to community impact and a long-standing record of nonprofit engagement to her new role, furthering CNEMT's mission to equip and empower nonprofit organizations through Middle Tennessee.

At Spencer Fane, Andrea combines industry insights with responsive, considerate client service to help organizations of all types navigate the complex landscape of real estate to achieve efficient, cost-effective solutions. She regularly handles matters related to the conveyance, acquisition, and development of commercial property, both new development and construction. She also has significant experience representing borrowers and lenders in corporate and commercial lending transactions, bringing a well-rounded perspective to complex deals. Her practice is defined by strategic insight, responsive service, and a results-driven approach that consistently delivers value to her clients.
