Andrew Johnson Speaks at Firm-Sponsored North American Construction Summit

Spencer Fane was pleased to sponsor Perrin Conferences' North American Construction Summit on February 9-10 in Scottsdale, Arizona. Attorney Andrew Johnson presented at the event.

Held at the JW Marriott Camelback Inn Resort & Spa, the Summit serves as an educational and networking forum for industry leaders to discuss emerging trends and evolving challenges in construction litigation. Andrew joined the panel for the February 9 session, National Trends and Jurisdictional Overview, which discussed construction litigation trends for 2026 and highlighted the most active and emerging jurisdictions of Arizona, California, New York, and Texas.

At Spencer Fane, Andrew calls on his proven experience as a lead trial attorney to provide clients with proactive legal advice that aligns with client goals and objectives. He utilizes the full range of dispute resolution options to optimize outcomes while minimizing reputational and monetary damages incurred in the process. With a focus on representing companies in a variety of commercial disputes, Andrew's successful practice includes resolving construction-related matters such as contractual payment disputes, liens, and performance issues.
