

Daily Journal Names John Picone a Top IP Lawyer

Spencer Fane is pleased to announce attorney John Picone's inclusion in the Daily Journal's 2025 Top Intellectual Property Lawyers list in recognition of his industry-leading work in patent, trademark, and copyright law.

In his honoree profile, John was spotlighted for his illustrious legal work in high-profile patent infringement cases, his new role as Spencer Fane Intellectual Property Practice Group Leader, and the influence his career as a U.S. Navy Aviator continues to have on his work.

"There's a naval officer thing: You are personally responsible for every sailor. So, I have paternalistic feelings about my group. But we made a good move. I'm head of IP here now, heading a practice of 50-plus lawyers ... and if I have my way, we're going to get even bigger."

At the firm, John specializes in complex cases that deviate from standard practices and require meticulous research, comprehensive knowledge, and high-level creativity to protect clients' interests. As leader of the Spencer Fane IP Practice Group, he guides industry-renowned attorneys across the firm's national footprint who guide individuals and businesses through preparation and prosecution of complex patent, copyright, and trademark matters.

Read John's full honoree profile here. Please note, a subscription may be required.