

Hannah McCalla Spotlights Professional Development Opportunities at Spencer Fane in ALM

ALM recently featured Spencer Fane attorney Hannah McCalla in their ongoing How I Made Partner series.

In her profile, ‘Embrace the Learning Process,’ Says Hannah McCalla of Spencer Fane, Hannah provided advice to early-career attorneys, outlined her work mindset and approach to business development, and discussed her professional journey – including how she’s been able to grow in her five years at the firm. She credited the national footprint at Spencer Fane, mentorship from Jeremy Moseley and Evan Stephenson, and the firm’s culture for her earning partnership in 2024.

“Earning the confidence of clients and consistently delivering high-quality work were key contributors [to being elected a partner]. Our firm’s leadership recognizes team-oriented professionals who support each other and have a strong commitment to excellence for our clients,” Hannah said. “I was fortunate to have been given client-facing opportunities early in my career, which helped me build relationships and establish credibility. One thing I appreciate most about our group is how collaborative we are. If someone’s in trial and needs help, people jump in without hesitation. That kind of culture makes it easier to succeed.”

At the firm, Hannah represents sophisticated clients in commercial litigation at the trial and appellate levels nationwide, with a focus on defense of insurance bad faith claims and class actions. She has experience and a history of success handling every stage of litigation, and has received recognition from both Best Lawyers in America and Colorado Super Lawyers.
