Hillary Martel Named to Kansas City Tomorrow Leadership Class

Spencer Fane is pleased to announce attorney Hillary Martel has been selected for the 2024-2025 Kansas City Tomorrow (KCT) Leadership Class. She is one of 28 professionals chosen by the Civic Council of Greater Kansas City for this prestigious program.

Entering its 46th year, the 10-month KCT experience prepares its participants to assume leadership roles in the community by serving on the boards of nonprofit organizations and through other involvements related to key challenges and opportunities facing the region. The program is co-facilitated by Kansas City's most influential business leaders and industry experts and focuses on areas such as education, economic development, advocacy and policy, diversity and inclusion, and the KC Rising initiative.

Hillary joins other Spencer Fane professionals such as Greg Ash, Mike Delaney, Adam LaBoda, Bryant Lamer, Stephanie Lovett-Bowman, Patrick McAndrews, Nicole Miller, and David Wing as a KCT participant.

At Spencer Fane, Hillary's combination of medical and legal knowledge gives her an in-depth understanding of the needs of the firm's health care clients. A former practicing nurse, she leverages her unique perspective and skill set to effectively resolve a variety of health care-related legal issues.
