

SpencerFane®

Jason Byrd Joins Spencer Fane Business Transactions Group in Nashville

Spencer Fane Bone McAllester is pleased to announce Jason Byrd has joined the Corporate and Business Transactions practice group as an of counsel attorney in Nashville.

Jason's private practice focuses on assisting businesses of all sizes with the transfer of assets and equity; negotiation of national vendor service agreements; drafting and negotiation of franchise, licensing, and distribution agreements and related documents; and compliance with state and federal regulatory requirements for franchisors and franchisees. He has also represented clients in acquiring and disposing of more than 100 properties across the United States and negotiating leases for several hundred retail, office, and warehouse locations throughout North America.

With a focus on providing responsive day-to-day client service, Jason helps identify and realize opportunities for growth and profitability for businesses ranging in size from small startup entities to large public companies with name brand products and services.

"Spencer Fane knows that every transaction can make a difference in sustaining a business's growth and momentum," said Charles Robert Bone, Office Managing Partner for Spencer Fane Bone McAllester in Nashville. "Jason is a proven advocate for a client's best interests, and he works tirelessly to assess and understand the full scope of our clients' operations, allowing him to provide strategic advice to achieve goals and objectives. He's committed to collaborative legal work and fits well with the established culture of our firm."

Jason completed his undergraduate studies in finance at the University of Georgia and later earned his Juris Doctor from Samford University's Cumberland School of Law.