SpencerFane

Jonathon Watson Provides Insight on Labor and Employment Law Related to COVID-19

Spencer Fane attorney Jon Watson was featured in an article for Law Week Colorado covering COVID-19 workplace safety and how the pandemic has impacted labor and employment laws.

Titled "Pandemic Opened a Bevy of Labor and Employment Law Questions to Outlast COVID," the article examines how the pandemic has impacted employers and recent developments concerning "new and ongoing public health-related legal questions."

Jon weighed in on the onset of the pandemic and how employers worked to adjust to a dynamic situation to remain compliant with workplace safety guidance and medical guidelines. "It felt like Groundhog Day, like deja-vu," Jon explained in the article. "Every day it'd be the same question but a different answer based on the most recent guidance."

To read the full article, please click here.