

Katherine Davis Explains the CDC's Mask Guidance

Spencer Fane attorney Katherine Davis recently published an article featured in Ingram's Magazine about the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)'s May announcement concerning COVID-19 mask guidance for fully-vaccinated individuals.

Titled "To Mask or Not to Mask: Assessing the CDC Guidance," the article discusses the new CDC guidance, its impact on businesses, legal and practical considerations, and workplace safety.

"Under OSHA's general-duty clause, employers have an obligation to maintain a workplace free from recognized hazards for all employees," Katherine explained in the article.

Since the magazine release in July, the CDC has now updated its guidance.

To read the full article, please click here.