Kelly Campbell to Discuss Workplace Safety at UMKC Theatre and the Law CLE

March 30, 2025
2:00 pm - 5:10 pm
The Powerhouse Theater at the Roger T Sermon Center 201 N Dodgion, Independence, MO 64050

Spencer Fane attorney Kelly Campbell will join the Workplace Safety and Corporate Responsibility panel for the CLE event, Theatre and the Law: "Radium Girls" on March 30 at the Powerhouse Theatre in Independence, Missouri.

Presented by City Theatre of Independence and UMKC Law School CLE, this dual performance and panel offers a unique educational experience. Attendees will enjoy refreshments and experience a live performance of "Radium Girls," which tells the story of female laborers in the early 20th century who entered a legal battle with their employer after being poisoned and killed by their factory's radium-based paint. Following is a discussion centered on the legal battles surrounding workplace safety, corporate accountability, and toxic tort litigation. Kelly and her fellow panelists will examine how the legal system responds to workplace safety concerns. Topics include workers' compensation, labor rights, corporate responsibility, and class action lawsuits, with insights into both historical and modern implications.

At the firm, Kelly is a trial attorney who helps her clients make the best decisions to reach their business goals. She defends her clients against allegations of exposure to toxic substances, workplace safety issues, mass torts and wrongful death claims. She represents manufacturers, supplies, and contractors, ranging from small, privately held companies to large, international, publicly traded companies. Throughout multiple successful trials and cases, she always keeps the client's goals her highest priority.
