

Lewandowski Joins Spencer Fane in Litigation Practice Group

Spencer Fane LLP is pleased to announce Amanda \(Amy\) Lewandowski has joined the Litigation and Dispute Resolution practice group as an associate in the firm's Kansas City office.

Lewandowski brings substantial experience in commercial litigation, construction law, and fraud investigation, having most recently worked as an attorney advisor with the U.S. Small Business Administration, where she served on a specialized anti-fraud identity theft team. Her prior work in private practice involved all aspects of litigation and case management.

"Our firm remains committed to providing the resources necessary to deliver an exceptionally high level of client service. It's important that we continue to add experienced attorneys at different levels so matters can be handled effectively and efficiently," said Kersten Holzhuetter, Practice Group Leader for the Spencer Fane Litigation and Dispute Resolution Group. "Amy not only brings a strong track record in her legal work but also fits perfectly with our culture of collaboration. We look forward to incorporating her skill set into the firm's litigation group as we maintain our focus on highly responsive service that benefits our clients."

Lewandowski completed her undergraduate studies in business at the University of Missouri before earning her Juris Doctor at the University of Iowa College of Law, where she participated in the school's Clinical Law Programs. She became a Certified Law Student Practitioner and worked on numerous pieces of litigation during her 10 months in the program.
