

Mary Mason Spotlighted as Member of 2026 KBA Leadership Institute

Spencer Fane attorney Mary Mason was featured in the March–April 2026 issue of the Kansas Bar Journal as part of the Kansas Bar Association (KBA) Leadership Institute Class of 2026.

The Leadership Institute is an exclusive four-month program designed to develop the next generation of legal leaders. Mary and her fellow participants will hone their leadership skills, build lasting relationships, and access exclusive educational and networking opportunities.

Her Journal feature highlights the impressive background and early legal success that inspired Mary's selection for the Institute.

At Spencer Fane, Mary counsels business leaders and management personnel on the full range of employee benefits solutions, crafting tailored plans that adhere to specific business needs, mitigate risk and personal liability, and abide by all federal compliance and regulatory obligations. She harnesses a unique background that includes a law clerkship, internship, and judicial externship to address client legal needs and help them reach their business goals.
