"There was finally some meaning to what I had been working hard to do," Sandy explained in the article. "I could be a lawyer who helped kids."

Focusing on juvenile and family law matters, Sandy helps clients in Jackson County Family Court, so that they can receive sound advice from legal counsel experienced in child abuse and neglect and juvenile delinquency cases. She handles these court-appointed cases on behalf of the firm's attorneys as well as for other lawyers in the Jackson County community.
