

Spencer Fane Growth Highlighted by National and Regional Trade Media

The firm's recent addition of 10 attorneys to the Spencer Fane Denver office received widespread national and regional coverage from notable legal and business publications.

The articles underscore the firm's continuous and measured growth that aligns with client needs, which in this instance focused on deepening its bench on high-stakes insurance litigation. The attorneys joining the firm included partners Linda Knight, Jeremy Moseley, Terence Ridley, and Evan Stephenson. Others joining the firm include of counsel attorneys Evan Blonigen and Megan Treseder; and associates Will Brophy, Elayna Fiene, Hannah Seifert and Kayla Scroggins-Uptigrove.

"We're moving from one culture of excellence to another culture of excellence," Terence Ridley explained to the Denver Business Journal. "There's a nice overlap where those offices are located and where our insurance company clients are located."

The "announcement is the latest in a series of Spencer Fane expansions this month, with new attorneys joining the firm in Phoenix; Austin; Plano, Texas; and Overland Park, Kansas," Law360 wrote. "The group is excited to be the latest addition to the firm's growth and for the increased presence in the Denver area," Jeremy explained in the article.

Full coverage of the lateral hires and growth for Spencer Fane in Denver can be found at the links below:

- "Spencer Fane Expands In Denver With 10 New Attorneys," Law360

- "In More Movement in Denver, Litigation Group Jumps to Spencer Fane," The American Lawyer
- "Spencer Fane Adds 10 to Insurance Practice," Law Week Colorado
- "Team of 10 attorneys departs one Denver law firm for another," Denver Business Journal

Please note, a subscription may be required.