Spencer Fane Hosts genKC's Financial Literacy Panel

Spencer Fane was honored to host genKC's Financial Literary Panel on November 2 at the firm's Kansas City office. Attorney Thomas Hiatt, genKC Professional Development Vice Chair, represented the firm at the event.

The panel comprised Shean and Leah Fletcher of WEALTH|KC, Mallory Baska of T-Mobile, and Trey Turley of Creative Planning. These local financial thought leaders provided advice to attendees on several pertinent topics such as loan forgiveness, 401(k) plans, and investments. The event also included refreshments.

genKC is an early-career professionals' organization. Its networking, community involvement, and professional development opportunities facilitate early-career professionals' development and leadership skills. Several Spencer Fane attorneys are members or leadership program alumni for genKC's parent organization, the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. These include David Waters, Julia Vander Weele, Nate Orr, Adam LaBoda, and Andrea Chase.
