

Spencer Fane Lands Insurance Litigator in Minneapolis

Spencer Fane LLP is pleased to welcome Shlomo Hahn to the firm's Minneapolis office as an associate in the Litigation and Dispute Resolution practice group.

Shlomo represents policyholders, insurers, and brokers in matters pertaining to comprehensive general liability, property and casualty, employers' liability, professional liability, directors and officers liability, and cyber policies in federal, state, and tribal courts. This is in addition to his established track record in ERISA litigation and compliance; insurance recovery and counseling; and construction, real estate, health care, general business, and complex commercial litigation.

"Shlomo's diverse breadth of experience and alignment with the firm's core values will meaningfully contribute to our powerful litigation team as well as to our dynamic professional culture," said Randi Winter, Office Managing Partner for Spencer Fane in Minneapolis. "As the insurance litigation team continues to gain traction and external recognition, adding new attorneys with creative perspectives is invaluable to aiding new market opportunities and growth."

After receiving his bachelor's degree magna cum laude from Touro University, Shlomo went on to obtain his Talmudic Theory and Jurisprudence degree from the Rabbinical Seminary of America. Following, he earned his Juris Doctor from the University of Minnesota Law School.

Shlomo is an active member of various Minneapolis-based initiatives, specifically within the Jewish community. He is a lay leader of the Minneapolis Community Kollel and recently completed two years of service as a board member of Sha'arim + Gateways.
