

Spencer Fane Litigation Team Adds Denver Associate

Spencer Fane LLP is pleased to welcome Jeff Clarke to the firm's Denver office as an associate in the Litigation and Dispute Resolution practice group.

Jeff proactively helps clients reduce risks and resolve conflicts across multiple industries and legal matters. His practice focuses on insurance, commercial, and class action litigation, with former representation experience spanning transportation, premises liability, public entity, and sports and recreation law.

"We are very excited to welcome Jeff to our skilled team of trial and ADR advocates," said Ron Fano, Office Managing Partner for Spencer Fane in Denver. "With more than one-third of all Spencer Fane attorneys participating in this practice group, it's always exciting to embrace new talent and fresh perspectives as we continue to provide our clients world-class service."

After completing his undergraduate studies at the University of Colorado, Jeff earned his Juris Doctor from the University of Denver, Sturm College of Law, where he received recognition for excellence in multiple legal categories, including alternative dispute resolution, negotiation and mediation, and privacy and data protection law.

Jeff joins Spencer Fane from a regional practice where he gained experience in all stages of litigation. He has also previously served as a legal extern for the Colorado Senate, a judicial extern for the Honorable Randall C. Arp of the Jefferson County District Court, and a legislative intern in the U.S. Senate, where he acquired practical, firsthand experience within legislative and state court systems.