Spencer Fane Singled Out for Best Companies to Work For Ranking

Spencer Fane is pleased to announce our inclusion in Ingram's 2026 Best Companies to Work For feature, earning a spot as the only law firm on the listing.

The industry distinction recognizes large, midsize, and small businesses across the Kansas City metropolitan area for creating exceptional work environments through “a strategic mix of compensation, benefits, and organizational culture.” The 2026 feature comes on the heels of Spencer Fane also being recognized by U.S. News & World Report in its Best Companies to Work For: Law Firms listing, highlighting the firm’s innovative, culture-as-strategy organization with top performance in growth, client and employee satisfaction, and other metrics.

“The results have been measurable: an attrition rate of approximately 1.7 percent compared with industry norms near 20 percent, and a Net Promoter Score of 88 – more than double typical client satisfaction levels,” the publication stated. “Those figures are presented not as isolated achievements, but as outcomes of a workplace designed to prioritize trust and long-term engagement over short-term production pressure.”

Ingram's also noted the firm’s continued market expansion and industry-leading revenue growth, demonstrating that prioritizing its people has yielded remarkable results: “Spencer Fane has continued gaining market share while maintaining profitability, reinforcing the firm’s central argument: that rethinking how professionals work together can reshape both workplace culture and business performance.”
