Spencer Fane Sponsors MedTech Accelerator

Spencer Fane is proud to sponsor the MedTech Accelerator March 20–29 in Scottsdale, Arizona. Attorneys Andy Anderson and Mike Broms will represent the firm at the event.

The MedTech Accelerator is a flagship program of the Mayo Clinic and Arizona State University Alliance for Health Care. After a highly competitive application process, chosen companies from the early-stage medical device and health care technology industries engage in an entrepreneurial curriculum and personalized business development plans. Through this immersive experience, participants accelerate their go-to-market and investment possibilities.

For the second year in a row, the winning company of the Accelerator's pitch competition will participate in Spencer Fane Labs, a pro bono program for early-stage companies, led by Andy and Mike. Utilizing their considerable experience and knowledge, the Spencer Fane team will advise the emerging venture in areas such as corporate and business transactions, financial services, licensing patents, and intellectual property.
