

Spencer Fane Team Discusses Safeguarding Healthcare Business Assets in Webinar

Spencer Fane attorneys Sean McKenna, Lauren Nelson, and Vincent Aiello presented Preserving and Protecting Assets in Healthcare, a First Healthcare Compliance webinar, on October 13.

During the presentation, the attorneys discussed the interplay between enforcement and liability proceedings with asset protection; explored how government and private litigation matters can impact healthcare companies, clinicians, and executives; and provided tips and preventive strategies to preserve income and assets to ensure business continuity and succession planning. Catherine Short, First Healthcare Compliance Manager of Virtual Education, served as host.

At Spencer Fane, Sean focuses his practice on solving clients' healthcare needs and representing companies and executives in white-collar cases and investigations. He utilizes almost 24 years of experience handling and defending healthcare and white-collar enforcement actions, as well as offering fraud and abuse insight and analysis.

Lauren litigates across the country on behalf of healthcare providers and executives, including hospital systems, physicians, rehabilitation centers, and other providers, in complex medical malpractice actions, licensing matters, and other business disputes.

Vincent helps business owners solve legal problems to secure revenue flow and reduce business risks. His client base spans a broad spectrum of businesses including household-name consumer brands, banks, construction companies, and family ventures.
