Overview

Andrew Ostapko brings clients a solutions-oriented approach to all aspects of mergers and acquisitions, equity capital markets, and joint ventures, assessing risks, rewards, and legal responsibilities critical to efficient and effective transactions that align with overall business objectives.

Andrew is known for taking a pragmatic approach to structuring, negotiating, and consummating complex corporate and commercial deals. His practice includes advising on middle market mergers, acquisitions and dispositions, venture capital fundraising, and a multitude of other private securities offerings. He has significant experience with entity formation and structuring, including real estate and commercial joint venture agreements.

Andrew also counsels private and public companies in a broad range of general corporate and commercial matters that help clients manage all aspects of day-to-day operations.

Serving as a valued partner with clients, Andrew first works to understand the full depth of a business operation and then works to tailor legal services to the unique circumstances. This includes a concentrated focus on combining business sense with the measured urgency often needed to take advantage of opportunities for growth, expansion, or profit.
