Overview

Brett Sayers counsels businesses and individuals on a variety of matters related to corporate and real estate transactions, developing strategic solutions at all stages of the business life cycle. Combining a vigilant and proactive approach to complex transactional matters, he helps clients navigate the acquisition and sale of real property, commercial and residential leasing transactions, real estate financing, and real estate development.

Within his comprehensive practice, Brett assists with entity selection, formation, ongoing operational matters, restructuring, acquisitions, divestitures, dissolution, and taxation.

Prior to entering private practice, Brett worked at a Big Four accounting firm helping multinational corporations maximize value while adhering to local, state, federal, and international taxation laws, experience which helped shape his client-centric approach to law.
