Overview

Christine Chasse is a dual licensed registered nurse and attorney. She maintains a practice at the intersection of cybersecurity and health care, advising clients on emerging legal risks while providing pragmatic, business-forward guidance. She supports a range of clients – from health systems to technology providers – with confidence and composure as she navigates complex regulatory frameworks, responds to high-stakes incidents, and structures effective litigation strategies. Christine's clients benefit from her nuanced understanding of both the legal landscape and the day-to-day realities of working within a health care organization as a frontline registered nurse for more than a decade prior to law school.

On the cybersecurity and artificial intelligence side, Christine, a Certified Information Privacy Professional (CIPP/US) and Certified Artificial Intelligence Governance Professional (AIGP), guides her clients through regulatory and compliance enforcement actions and advises on technological issues including cybersecurity, data privacy, AI, and cyber incident response matters such as actual or potential HIPAA breaches and data security incidents.

In the health care space, Christine utilizes her extensive frontline health care experience to assess and successfully resolve professional liability claims for hospital systems and providers. While her early career included significant work in medical malpractice defense, she now focuses on representing providers in litigation and supporting health care transactions and operational planning.

Christine completed her undergraduate studies in nursing at the University of Texas at Arlington (UTA) before completing a residency with Baylor Health Care System. She later earned a master's degree in nursing administration from UTA and went on to work in nursing education, administration, and management before going back to school, graduating with her Juris Doctor from Texas A&M.
