Overview

David Driggs takes a methodical, highly collaborative approach to helping clients navigate a wide array of intricate business transactions, employing his background in real estate finance.

After receiving a finance degree from Brigham Young University, David spent two years in the real estate investment space before earning his Juris Doctor at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, William S. Boyd School of Law. His early career in finance and instinctive legal acumen helps David strategically solve clients' unique problems with high attention to potential risks and both short- and long-term business needs.
