Overview

Eli Bergida advises clients on a variety of transactional legal matters, including real estate acquisition, disposition, development, secured transactions, and formation and structuring of entities. Throughout all his work, Eli consistently maps out and understands the big picture, formulates a strategic plan, and works quickly and adeptly to accomplish the necessary tasks for successful outcomes.

Prior to establishing his current practice, Eli served as a judicial intern to the Hon. Kent J. Dawson of the U.S. District Court of Nevada in Las Vegas, as a legal extern to the University Medical Center of Southern Nevada's Office of General Counsel, and as a summer associate and law clerk within a renowned private practice.

Before entering law school, Eli worked in the construction insurance and real estate acquisition industries in New York City, experience which has shaped his hardworking and proactive approach to client matters.
