Overview

Eric Johnson is a partner at Spencer Fane in the Banking and Financial Services and Bankruptcy, Restructuring and Creditors' Rights Groups.

Over the course of his 20-plus year career, Eric has represented almost every constituency in insolvency proceedings including trustees, receivers, secured lenders, debtors in possession, buyers of distressed assets, creditors' committees, trade creditors, landlords, and defendants in insolvency related litigation.

Eric has focused his practice on the representation of bankruptcy trustees, judicial receivers, and assignees for the benefit of creditors in complex litigation and liquidations. Eric has also served as a federal equity receiver, state court appointed receiver, Chapter 11 trustee, and is currently a member of the panel of Chapter 7 trustees for the Western District of Missouri.

In addition to his fiduciary related work, Eric has also focused his practice on the representation of secured lenders along the distressed loan continuum including out of court workouts, state law remedies, such as receiverships, and ultimately bankruptcy proceedings. In this respect, Eric has been involved in numerous cash collateral and debtor in possession financing disputes and transactions.

Eric has a great affinity for agricultural related matters. In addition to agriculture being an essential element of the midwestern and international economies, Eric originally hails from a small rural community in central Iowa where his family has been involved in soybean and corn production for multiple generations along with farm implement sales and repair.

Eric has a strong commitment to the bar and legal education, Eric is a frequent speaker and writer on insolvency related topics and has served in multiple leadership positions at the local, state, and national level. Currently, Eric is currently the president of the Kansas City Bankruptcy Bar Association and is serving on the Board of Directors for the American Bankruptcy Institute, the nation's largest association of insolvency professionals.

In recognition of his contributions to the insolvency profession, Eric was selected as a fellow of The American College of Bankruptcy and is a recipient of the Missouri Bar's Michael R. Roser Excellence in Bankruptcy Award. Eric is currently serving on the American College of Bankruptcy Foundation's Board of Directors and is serving as the College's Eighth Circuit Education Chair.
