Overview

John Torrenti helps businesses and individuals effectively navigate domestic and international transactions by providing detail-oriented guidance on federal and state tax laws, general corporate and regulatory considerations, and overall objectives to structure effective and value-oriented transactions.

John has extensive experience assisting both buyers and sellers in connection with private company mergers, acquisitions, and divestitures. He also provides counsel to institutional investors and private equity, venture capital, and hedge funds, representing funds throughout their lifecycles. His experience with both federal and state tax matters, along with corporate and regulatory matters, makes him uniquely positioned to provide pragmatic, solutions-oriented advice that maximizes value for clients.
