Overview

Josh Sherfy advises governmental entities, municipalities, nonprofits, and other public sector clients in a wide variety of matters pertaining to public finance, with a focus on bond issuances and municipal law.

Helping clients through all phases of bond issuances and financing transactions, Josh manages complex regulatory requirements and supports strategic funding objectives with a practical, solutions-oriented approach. He also advises on day-to-day corporate governance and compliance matters, public projects, and related contracts.

At all turns, Josh seeks to advance tangible community outcomes, including infrastructure projects and diverse economic development initiatives.
