Overview

Kelsey Parker's practice focuses on energy and environmental law, primarily in the area of public utility regulation, where she represents utilities and municipalities in proceedings before governmental and regulatory boards throughout Texas. She helps clients navigate complex transactional, operational, and regulatory issues, developing practical solutions aligned to meet evolving regulations

In addition, Kelsey has worked extensively on regulatory matters pertaining to natural gas infrastructure and renewable energy generation, as well as on environmental compliance under the Clean Water Act, Safe Drinking Water Act, Endangered Species Act, Oil Pollution Act, and Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act.

She is an active member of both the Public Utility Law and the Environmental Law sections of the State Bar of Texas. Kelsey completed her undergraduate studies at The University of Texas at Austin and earned her Juris Doctor from the University of Houston Law Center.
