Overview

Luke Ratzlaff advises businesses on transactions and corporate matters, helping clients structure and execute deals, manage risk, and pursue opportunities that support their operational and strategic objectives.

His practice encompasses a broad range of transactional work for clients across multiple industries, including energy, real estate, and health care. Luke assists with the drafting and negotiation of agreements, entity formation, corporate governance matters, and other business transactions. By working closely with clients throughout the life cycle of a transaction, he helps organizations address legal issues efficiently while supporting their broader business goals.

In addition to advising on transactional matters, Luke helps clients maintain effective corporate governance and organizational compliance. His attention to detail and practical approach enable him to support businesses as they navigate day-to-day legal needs and long-term strategic initiatives.
