Overview

Megan Rockwell guides clients through opportunities to start, grow, and sell their businesses with a specific focus on mergers and acquisitions, capital raising transactions, and general corporate matters. She represents founders, issuers, and investors across a range of industries, including hospitality, technology, financial services, and consumer products, providing practical and strategic counsel throughout all stages of a company's life cycle.

Megan has developed significant experience representing hospitality clients – including restaurant groups, celebrity chefs, founders, and investors – in a wide variety of complex transactions. Her experience includes negotiating key-money arrangements, structuring capital raises for new locations or concepts, and establishing equity incentive programs for key personnel. She also facilitates concept expansion through management agreements with property owners.

Megan frequently advises on internal reorganizations and roll-ups designed to prepare hospitality clients for third-party investment or acquisition. She counsels clients on strategic exits, including acquisitions by private equity funds.

Clients rely on Megan for her clear guidance, industry insight, and ability to navigate the nuanced legal and business considerations inherent in corporate transactions.
