Overview

Michael Weinstein advises on all aspects of bankruptcy and restructuring matters, representing a wide range of clients, including distressed businesses and individuals, acquirers of distressed assets, debt holders, and bankruptcy trustees. With deep experience navigating complex financial distress scenarios, he provides strong advocacy as a strategic problem-solver who helps clients pursue value-preserving outcomes in high-stakes situations. His approach emphasizes understanding both his clients' goals and the motivations of the parties across the table, allowing him to tailor strategies that anticipate challenges and leverage opportunities.

Given his background, Michael appreciates that bankruptcy often sits at the intersection of several legal disciplines – including litigation, asset sales, restructurings, workouts, and court-approved reorganization plans – and he is adept at managing these moving parts efficiently throughout the engagement.

In addition to his bankruptcy and restructuring work, Michael also has extensive experience in real estate transactions, including the acquisition, disposition, and financing of office, retail, residential, and industrial properties nationwide.
