Overview

Scott Woody focuses his practice on tax planning at the state and local levels, while also handling tax controversies and any associated litigation. He has valuable experience in contract preparation and analysis, Tribal taxation, and matters and regulatory challenges related to federal and state agencies. This often involves assisting clients with effectively structuring business transactions and arranging personal financial affairs to minimize, defer, or eliminate tax obligations that align with a client's specific objectives.

Scott completed his undergraduate studies at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology and earned his Master's in accounting and his Juris Doctor at the University of New Mexico. He has also obtained an LLM in taxation from New York University.
