Overview

Van DeGregorio represents employers and business leaders across the full spectrum of labor and employment matters, including employment discrimination claims under Title VII, the Missouri Commission on Human Rights, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and the Family Medical Leave Act. His full-service practice encompasses investigation and response to employee claims before administrative agencies and, when necessary, litigation.

Boasting diverse representation experience, Van has previously focused on commercial litigation matters, including contract claims, construction litigation, trademark and copyright, real estate disputes, and corporate governance matters. His work across multiple industries provides him with a unique perspective to identify potential risks, integrate comprehensive tools to prepare for short- and long-term challenges, and make proactive plans to handle particularly complex disputes in the courtroom.

While completing his Juris Doctor, Van served as a legal extern to the Honorable Shirley P. Mensah, Chief Magistrate Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, and was an active member of the Saint Louis University Law Journal.
