Intellectual Property Litigation

OVERVIEW

Spencer Fane represents clients in a wide range of intellectual property proceedings, not only in the courts but also in appeal, opposition, cancelation, reexamination, and interference proceedings before the United States Patent and Trademark Office. We have represented clients before the Federal Trade Commission to halt the import of infringing goods, and we have both prosecuted and defended infringement and unfair competition claims. Our approach to intellectual property litigation involves a blend of unrivaled technical proficiency with unsurpassed trial expertise. Each of our litigation teams draws from the strength of the firm's creative and imaginative personnel to achieve success for our clients.
