

Coaches and Athletic Directors

For over 25 years, our attorneys have represented college coaches and athletic directors. Spencer Fane equips its individual clients with a productive array of experience, information and relationships. Our comprehensive approach is personalized to each client's unique career plan and circumstances. We have prepared hundreds of coaches and athletic directors for interviews and maintain productive relationships with search firms as well as other athletic directors and coaches and their representatives throughout the country. We prepare our clients to win their interviews and, during the course of their employment, successfully navigate the myriad and diverse demands on their personal and professional lives.

- Contract negotiation and enforcement
- Compliance and risk-management advice and counsel (e.g. NCAA Rules, Title IX, University, Club, Conference and League governance matters)
- Legal counsel in infractions matters and appeals

We maintain an extensive database of coach and athletic executive compensation, a portion of which is published by USA Today. We use this information in conjunction with a host of historic and emerging performance data to provide our clients a competitive advantage in identifying value and opportunities in the marketplace.
